Signature Theatre to Honor Stephen Sondheim at Gala Benefit in April Theatre to pay tribute to composer by establishing annual 'Sondheim Award'

Arlington, VA – October 6, 2008 – Eric Schaeffer, the Artistic Director of Signature Theatre, tonight announced that Signature will honor Stephen Sondheim at a Gala Benefit in April and establish an annual award as a tribute to America's most influential contemporary musical theater composer. Signature will salute Mr. Sondheim at a black-tie Gala Celebration on Monday, April 27, 2009, in Washington, DC highlighted by a musical tribute, dinner, and dancing and will present him with the honor to be named for him, The Sondheim Award. In the future the award will be presented to individuals for their career contributions to interpreting, supporting, and collaborating on Sondheim's musical works. Schaeffer announced the gala and creation of the award at Signature's second Great American Musicals in Concert benefit performance of Sondheim's Anyone Can Whistle. Proceeds from the April event will benefit the non-profit Signature Theatre.

"As Signature prepares to celebrate its 20th anniversary season, we have decided that it is very fitting and appropriate to honor Stephen Sondheim, the composer whose musicals mean so much to us. Through his long collaboration with our company and the 18 Sondheim productions we have presented over the years, Steve's works have come to be our 'signature.' Steve has been a great friend to Signature over the past two decades and we look forward to doing many more presentations of his musicals in the future. I'm thrilled that Steve has agreed to accept this tribute and inaugurate 'The Sondheim Award'," stated Schaeffer.

Stephen Sondheim said, "When Signature approached me about creating an award in my name, I was simultaneously flattered, honored and embarrassed – flattered that Signature should think so highly of me, honored because I think so highly of Signature, and embarrassed because I'm pathetically neurotic about being in the spotlight. The fact is that Signature has done me proud over the years, not merely in the frequency with which they have produced musicals I worked on but because the quality of the productions has been so consistently high and inventive. I look forward to being embarrassed when I inaugurate the award this spring.”
